

Forum

In this category we welcome debate articles on current issues (e.g. debates in the interpretation of history or on current ethical issues) relevant to the journal's readership. Forum contributions may respond to ongoing debates as well as stimulate new ones. Forum contributions can also be used to provide insight into the different cultures, history and ethics of nursing care in European countries. Such articles should provide readers from other countries with an insight into the specific historical and ethical discussions of nursing care as well as the related social and cultural conditions in their own country.

A forum article is treated like an academic article, but with a maximum of 15,000 characters it is significantly shorter than the usual standard ENHE article; it includes a short abstract, notes, a bibliography and will be peer reviewed (see ENHE stylesheet: <https://www.enhe.eu/guide>).
